

Skills-training Workshop: Interactive Storytelling

A new approach for today's challenges

Saturday, June 13, 2009 12:00 noon-5:00 PM

Location: StoriesWork · 1820 James Street · Durham, NC · 27707

(919) 433-1535

Turn traditional folktales into a framework for conducting lively, insightful and transformative conversations about difficult and sensitive topics. Anyone with a passion for stories is welcome. In a safe, non-threatening atmosphere, learn to retell and analyze stories, guide a spirited discussion, and draw on time-tested wisdom for today's world. Discover how these age-old stories offer new insights, empowerment, and reassurance.

For business, social services or personal growth: Interactive Storytelling helps participants reevaluate long-held beliefs, entrenched ideas, and critical decisions. Relevant to communications, teamwork, diversity, addiction, domestic violence, aging and more.

Workshop staff: Lenora Ucko, StoriesWork Executive Director; Diane Lennox, Communications Specialist, SAS; Margie Rose, Family Law Attorney

This workshop is offered as a public service at a highly reduced fee of $25.

Ask about our specifically tailored programs for your business or organization.

StoriesWork is a 501-c-3 tax exempt non-profit organization-

Skills-training Workshop in Interactive Storytelling

CEU credit available.

Saturday, June 13, 2009 12:00 – 5:00 PM 1820 James St., Durham, NC 27707

Name _____

Address _____

Phone _____ Cell _____ Email _____

Payment options:

Mail: Send $25 check and this form to StoriesWork PO Box 51693 Durham, NC 27717

or online: Go to www.storieswork.org and then click on the "Donate" button or register by email: storieswork@gmail.com

Include name and phone number and pay at the door